A collage of black and white photographs from the 1940s, featuring students in various settings. The images include a marching band member in a sailor suit, students at a table, a car accident scene with a damaged vehicle, students in a classroom, and a group of students posing. The photos are arranged in a collage style, with some overlapping and others cut out to fit the layout. The background of the collage is a light, textured surface.

Staff of 1940

The Annual of 1940 is profusely illustrated with pictures and articles selected for their interest and educational value. It is hoped that much pleasure and profit will be derived by the reader. For a successful publication, a staff must have encouragement, help, and guidance from school authorities and friends. For assistance in the preparation of this annual, the staff is especially indebted to Miss Mary Jane Baker whose efforts have been unlimited. She has advised in all of the editorial and financial tasks.

The members of the staff feel greatly indebted to Mr. Perry and Mr. Lipscomb whose high standards have been an inspiration in the compiling of the yearbook. The staff is under obligation to many students, especially Roy Truitt, Raeford Norman, and Alossie Murrell for their coöperation in operating the senior supply shop, and to Raoul'd Price for his help in obtaining advertisements. Finally, grateful acknowledgment is made to our advertisers.
